

Blog Update 1 ~ Friday 29th November

Greetings, Rights Knights fans! Today it is only me, Elena S, as our other Knight is busy. Today I am going to share things that all the Right Knights have been doing inside and out of our meetings!

The Rights Knights, to link into Children In Need, did a competition where the whole school had to design a poster tied to 2 individual rights we had chosen. The winners of the competition will be announced in our Celebration Assembly. Well done to all the winners!

The Rights Knights have been given a lanyard to promote themselves to all the children in the school. The idea of the lanyards is to let all the children know that we are here to help with problems that they might have. We like to link the Rights to things that might be going on!

The Rights Knights also are allowed to decide with their teachers to hand out stickers for good work and positive attitude. This week's stickers will be awarded in class from our Rights Knight. Good luck to all!

That's all from our Rights Knights update. See you next week to have a sneak peek to what article we will be focusing on and remember your Rights!
